SAIChe Conference Poster: Irradiation treatment of dissolving pulps produced in South Africa

Ocwelwang A\textsuperscript{a}, Sithole B\textsuperscript{a} and Ramjugemath D\textsuperscript{b}

\textsuperscript{a} CSIR. Natural Resources and the Environment also Discipline of Chemical Engineering, University of KwaZulu-Natal, 359 Mazisi Kunene Avenue, Glenwood, Durban
\textsuperscript{b} Discipline of Chemical Engineering, University of KwaZulu-Natal, 359 Mazisi Kunene Avenue, Glenwood, Durban

Abstract

Dissolving pulp refers to purified wood derived chemical pulps made up of more than 90% cellulose content and traces of other wood components such as hemicellulose and lignin. This poster highlights the irradiation treatment of dissolving pulps produced in South Africa.