Co-expression of sulphydryl oxidase and protein disulphide isomerase in Escherichia coli allows for production of soluble CRM197

Roth, RL
Van Zyl, PJ
Tsekoa, TL
Stoychev, SH
Mamputha, S
Buthelezi, SG
Crampton, MC

ABSTRACT:

The aim of this article is to investigate the production of soluble cross-reacting material 197 (CRM(sub197)) in Escherichia coli, a safe and effective T-cell-dependent protein carrier for polysaccharides used in the manufacture and application of multivalent conjugate vaccines.